STRIKES CAUSE SHIPPING DELAY

San Francisco Dealers Notify Customers All May Not Go Well.

Fears of a shortage of many staple supplies haunt the minds of merchants. The strike of the teamsters at San Francisco, followed and joined as it is now by the coming out of the Water Front laborers, has caused notifications to almost every large dealer in the city from its Coast connections that there will be delays, and that these may be serious. Mail yesterday told this story to most of the wholesalers, but there is hope that before there is any complication a solution will be found which will permit unloading vessels as of old.

Merchants say that the prospective shortage will be felt first in tinned goods, meats especially. There is said to be only a fair supply of smoked meats, and feed is placed in the category of short. Hay is in fair supply, considering afloat and in stock, and fresh fruits and vegetables will be in need of replenishing before the strike is broken, according to the present outlook. There was a shortage of some brands of cigarettes and whiskeys, but the Sierra brought a new stock, which may last until free shipments are resumed.

Already there is talk of corners in various lines, but merchants who see any chance for trouble in replenishing their stocks, have taken the course of cutting down large orders, so that their warehouse supplies may not be exhausted early. The plan appears to be that there will be given no chance for speculators to buy up all the available supply by giving to any one customer only what is absolutely necessary. There is some talk of securing supplies from another port than San Francisco, if the next mail does not tell of a resumption of work by the striking teamsters. This would mean large orders for Portland and Seattle, though the fact that there is mediation offered and practically accepted in San Francisco leads to the belief that there will be no long continued battle.

One of the short supplies is said to be feed and hay. One large consumer yesterday purchased 100 bales of hay, with an order for feed to match, to preclude any chance for a shutting down on the ration for the horses. Another tried to secure the same supply but it is said that while assurance was given that there will be no shortage in the supply the amount asked for could not be delivered now.

The increased use of gasoline and distillate has made that grade one of some importance and there was a rumor yesterday that an attempt would be made to corner the market. An order for 100 cases was refused by one firm yesterday, but assurance was given that there would be no regular customer of the house who would not be given enough all the time for his engines. With this he had to be content. James Gordon Spencer, manager of the Pacific Hardware Company, said yesterday that there was afloat and in warehouse for that firm enough distillate and gasoline to supply the market until the middle of September. Should there be any failure to keep up supply, however, he said there would be simply a refusal to book large orders for immediate delivery.

Mr. Archibald Young, of Von Hamm-Young Company, said that while he could not say what was in warehouse and difficulty in meeting the demand, as to a combination it is said that there is no one but for the reason that if the dealers would combine to raise prices the customers would simply buy direct and thus take away trade which would mean more than a small advance in the prices obtained.

Executive Council Meeting.

Following the opinion received from Washington regarding the right of the government to lease lands, the Waiānae Plantation yesterday made application to the executive council for a re-lease of the Lualualei lands, now held in part by that corporation. It was decided, however, that the lands should be leased as a whole, at an upset price of $12,000 a year. The tract comprises about 15,000 acres. An application was also received from J. W. Wise, who asked that the Maunakāhi plot be leased to him for $90 a year. His application was approved. The report of Assistant Superintendent Campbell on the route for the Hilo-Kohala railway was received and approved.

Hawaiians Sing a Farewell.

A pretty sight was presented as the Sierra left the wharf, says the Call. The dock was thronged with friends of the passengers, who had assembled to wish them bon voyage. A number of Honolulu ladies, each of whom wore a "lei," were gathered in a knot on the upper deck of the Sierra. As the ship gained headway, they started to sing the songs of their island home, accompanying the music by a graceful waving of arms. The crowd on the dock responded with vigorous handclappings.

Will Visit Industrial School Site.

Formal application to Land Commissioner Boyd for the Waiānae tract, to be used for an industrial school, will be made next Tuesday, as was decided upon by the Board of Education at the last regular meeting. A visit of inspection is to be made very soon, and the party will include Superintendent Atkinson, T. H. Gibson, Acting Governor Cooper, E. A. Mott-Smith, E. S. Boyd and others.

Judge Lacombe, of the United States Circuit Court, has rendered a decision against the Castellanes, compelling them to pay their creditors about one and three-quarter millions.

MEMORIAL ADOPTED

This action on the part of Mr. Usborne and his followers is the latest development in the long controversy between Bishop Willis and the majority of the church members, and relief is expected through it from the troubles of long standing.

Mr. Usborne was seen last night after the meeting. He said that the memorial was to the point and that it is expected to bring about a settlement of the difficulties.

"Considering this is an American territory," said he, "peopled by Americans, why should not members of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America have an American bishop? All connection with the English church was practically severed many years ago, and the relation now is merely nominal. We are Americans and we desire to be joined as a church under an American diocese. In case the memorial is successful our church will come under the supervision of an American bishop, who may be either resident or take the Hawaiian branch under supplementary supervision from some other diocese. This will give us an American church, with American church privileges, undisturbed or interfered with by the Anglican church or its representatives. The English privy council has decided that the English bishop's authority outside the British Empire extends only over British subjects in that country, as wish for his Episcopal administration. What, then, is the fate of American subjects and those English subjects who do not desire a continuance of the present Episcopal administration? Are American Episcopalians to be debarred the privilege of their own church in their own country during the pleasure of an English bishop? We believe that the remedy is in membership with the American Protestant Episcopal Church, and the step just taken is for the purpose of bringing this about."

When asked about the plans of himself and his followers in case the memorial is effective, Mr. Usborne stated that St. Andrew's Cathedral would probably be made the church building and branch churches would probably be established in the other islands. In reference to the question of a disagreement as to church property he said that the division would practically leave Bishop Willis to do as he chose with the Anglican Cathedral and its appurtenances; however, this would not of necessity be final, and future developments would determine several matters. For instance, did extremely demand it, the law could be made to operate somewhat to the discomfort of Bishop Willis in the question of church property inasmuch as the present Anglican Church was established under royalty by permission of a Hawaiian King as a mission and the present validity of the title can be disputed under the terms of annexation. This, however, is a course that had been suggested only in case of extreme provocation as the courtesy due a bishop of the Episcopal church should not be disregarded if it could be avoided.

A new pamphlet has been published by Mr. Usborne and is now being circulated. It reviews the controversy from the beginning and contains the complete correspondence between Bishop Willis and Mr. Usborne and his co-trustees. It defends Mr. Usborne's contention that he is legally the rector of Honolulu and is addressed to the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, her bishops and other clergy and her laity. It contains little that is new, but seeks to define the situation more clearly and emphasizes the intolerable conditions under the present middle and Bishop Willis' displeasure. It concludes as follows:

"The more Mr. Usborne has submitted to the unlawful action of the Bishop, the more patiently he has borne his persecution, the further has the Bishop gone, until now, this last act so outrageous as to deprive him of his rights and all sense of right, propriety and Episcopal authority. Mr. Usborne feels compelled, in justice to the church, to his family and himself to seek redress through the American Church, since it appears there is no other method of obtaining it, owing to the irregularity of our church organization."
